CHURCH REDEDICATED.

Interesting Exercises at the Middle Street Baptist Church.

EDIFICE HAS BEEN REFURNISHED THROUGHOUT AT GREAT EXPENSE.

Program Arranged For the Occasion and the Renovated Church Thronged With Parishioners and Friends.

Thursday evening the Middle street Baptist church, which during the past summer has been closed while extensive repairs were in progress, was rededicated with suitable services.

The church building now bears little resemblance to the original structure, although the walls are still the same, put up seventy years ago.

From the outside the structure looks like a new building, being painted to resemble pressed brick, while hand some stained glass memorial windows have been put in. The building is surmounted by a dome ornamented with a Roman scroll pinnacle. The front doors are finished in heavy San Domingo mahogany.

But it is on entering the edifice that the greatest transformation is noticeable. It is a sight to behold one spell-bound with wonderment at the marvelous work of the artist.

RESIGNATIONS AT YALE UNIVERSITY.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 17.—At the meeting of the corporation of Yale university, held this afternoon, President Timothy Dwight presented his resignation. The resignation is to take effect at the end of the university year. The corporation requested President Dwight to delay his retirement until after 1901. President Dwight, however, insisted upon his resignation at the time stated, and the matter was referred to a special committee to report at a meeting of the corporation to be held on Dec. 31st. President George J. Brush, director of the Sheffield Scientific school, today presented his resignation. Professor R. H. Clittenden was elected as Director Brush's successor. President Dwight's resignation caused a profound sensation. It has been no secret for some time that the president contemplated resigning, before age weighed too heavily upon him, but it was hoped that this action would be deferred until after the coming bi-centennial celebration of the university in 1901. In his letter President Dwight expresses his conviction that it is desirable, both for his own happiness and for the best interests of an institution of learning, that the chief administrative office in a large university should not continue in that position beyond the age of seventy. That limit he has just reached.

Jerry Simpson denies the report that he will retire from politics. He simply doesn't know how to do a thing like that.

It is a little early, but the man who about this time of year always predicts an extra session of congress has already arrived. The country can't lose him.

Senator Allen, of Nebraska, who is doomed to defeat when he comes up for re-election, alleges that he was sold out on election day by the fusionists. They were a slippery lot, and Brother Allen ought to stop training with them.

Senator Stewart, of Nevada, declares that he will be re-elected in spite of the apparent majority against him in the legislature. Mr. Stewart really can't think the people of Nevada capable of even imagining that they can get along without him.

The appeal which the Filipino Junta has addressed "to President McKinley and the American people" is a curious mixture of conceit and insolence. In one sentence it begs for the protection and aid of this government, and in the next it accuses the American naval and military officials of injustice and oppression. The Filipinos who prepared this appeal have evidently gone a long distance out of their way to insult their benefactors.

STUMP PENCILS MASCOTS.

Members of Gotham's Stock Exchange subscriptions About Lead Sticks.

"Talking about hoodoos and mazots," said a member of the Stock Exchange, "the boys on the floor of the exchange are as superstitious as a lot of sailors. If you don't believe it, look at the lead pencils they are using this time you are in the building."

"You won't find a man using a long lead pencil. Why? Because a long pencil is 'hoodoo' of the worst kind. They always cut a new pencil in half before they sharpen it. Some of these pencils acquire the reputation of being lucky."

"Less than a week ago I came down without my pencil, which, by the way, is a lucky one—every memorandum made with that pencil results in a profit for me—and I borrowed one from a friend on the floor. He handed me a stump about an inch long and said, 'You can use that; it's a lucky pencil.'

"Sure enough, I made two deals in the morning, and each netted me a handsome profit."

"I was about to make a memorandum of some stock I had bought when my friend approached and said:

"Here, take this pencil and let me have mine again. I've lost on every deal since I loaned it to you."

"Sure enough, I lost on that deal, and the luck went back to the owner of the pencil."

"When you get hold of a lucky pencil, you want to hang on to it."

"Some of the boys have little lucky pencils not more than an inch long, and they guard them as they would their lives."

"If you, through carelessness or accident, cause them to break the lead point they lose whatever regard they have for you and forever afterward regard you as inimical. Some of them wouldn't take $5 for a little piece of pencil worth considerably less than a cent."—New York Press.

A Royal Flisterer.

The plateau at Marlborough House contains an enormous amount of valuable property. It is absolutely fireproof and always guarded with unceasing vigilance. The floor is tiled, the fittings mahogany. Round the room, reaching from floor to ceiling, are the cases, each about three feet deep. In the center of the room is a special case, matching the others. This was constructed in the silver wedding year to receive the enormous amounts of presents given to the prince and princess. It is lined with plain blue cloth.

It is in this room that the special dinner services—one of which is the finest in existence—are kept, besides the silver for ordinary use. Here, too, are to be seen presentation services, centerpiece, salvers, flasks, tankards, yacht racing cups and Christens, Easter and christening gifts.

THE GOLDEN AGE.

There are no days like bygone days. So thinks the sage heart. No ways there are like ancient ways. Now comes the bliss impart: For when the vision back is cast It sees a golden age.

That heart then sighs for all the past And does the action sage.

The brightest days are coming days. Affirms the youth in glow. And on the future is his gaze. While present moments live.

The golden age is yet to beam Before his eager mind, And thus his thoughts with lustre gleam As they their views unfold.

But to the semi-end epique The older age is now.

With plenty near his joy is sure, And the old heart grows more true.

Within the present day he grows To taste the elated soul.

Asserting that the rich and wise Are thus supplied with food.

The true philosophy is found In finding and end.

Away from social, earthly ground Toward everlasting dawn.

The better life beyond its lies, Declares the sacred sage.

And those who look with faith in eyes Discover the golden age.

—Rev. W. H. Baumer in Philadelphia Ledger.

THE ZOUAVE.

On the evening of my story George Lory, the first blacksmith of Sainte-Marie-aux-Mines, was in an unhappy frame of mind.

It had always been his habit as soon as the forge fire was extinct and the sun had set to seat himself on a bench before his door, and while enjoying that lassitude which hard work on a warm day leaves behind it, drink several pints of beer with his apprentices before sending them away.

But on this particular evening the good man remained at the forge until it was time to go to the supper table, and then went reluctantly into the house.

"What can be the matter with him?" thought his wife. "Perhaps he has received some bad news from the regiment that he does not wish to tell me. Perhaps our son is ill."

But as she dared not ask she occupied herself in trying to quiet her three tawny headed youngsters, whose laughing faces appeared around the board, where they were munching a salad of black radishes and cream.

At last the blacksmith pushed away his plate, exclaiming angrily:

"Oh, the cowards! Oh, the scoundrels!"

"What is the matter, Lory?" asked his wife.

Then the root of the whole matter came to light.

"I am speaking of those five or six scoundrels whom any one could have seen this morning rambling round the village in the uniforms of French soldiers, arm in arm with the Bavarians. Yes, it is such as these—what shall I call them—who have chosen to become Prussians! And to think we will have to see these false Alsatians coming back every day from Africa! What magic power have they drunk to make them change this way!"

His wife, motherlike, immediately attempted the defense of the scimed.

"What would you have otherwise, my poor husband?" said she. "This return is hardly the fault of these children. Algiers, where they were sent, is so far away that they were homesick, and it must have been such a temptation for them to come back, such a temptation not to have to be soldiers any longer!"

His wife, motherlike, immediately attempted the defense of the scimed.

A PECULIAR REMEDY
Something Abreastine New Discovery
for Curing Dyspepsia

The Rev F. Bell, a highly esteemed minister residing in Weedsport, Cayuga Co., N.Y., in a recent letter writes as follows: "There has never been anything that I have taken that has relieved the Dyspepsia from which I have suffered for ten years except the new remedy called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Since taking them I have had no distress at all after eating and again after long years can sleep well. Rev F. Bell, Weedsport, N.Y., formerly, Ideal City, Colo."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is a remarkable remedy, not only because it is a certain cure for all forms of indigestion, but because it seems to act as thoroughly in old chronic cases of dyspepsia as well as in mild attacks of it digestion or biliousness. A person has dyspepsia simply because the stomach is overworked, all it wants is a harmless, vegetable remedy to digest the food and thus give it the much needed relief.

This is the secret of the success of this peculiar remedy. No matter how weak or how much disordered the digestion may be, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest the food whether the stomach works or not. New life and energy are given not only to the stomach but to every organ and nerve in the body. A trial of this splendid medicine will convince the most skeptical that the Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles can be cured. The tablets are prepared by the F. A. Stark Co., of Marshall, Mich., but so popular has the remedy become that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can now be obtained at any drug store at 50 cents per package. Send for book on stomach diseases free.

THE HERALD.

FRIDAY, NOV. 18, 1898.

CHAPLAIN DICKINS' PREDE- CEREMONY.

The dismissal of Chaplain J. C. McIntyre from the navy has for its document a sad romance which his friends are now discussing, says the Denver Republican. It appears that as a consequence of the dismissed which resulted from the court martial, the chaplain has been dismissed by a wealthy belle of New York city to whom he was engaged and to whom he would have been married ere long if that unfortunate lecture had not been delivered here. The chaplain left Denver on Friday, the 11th inst., for California, and is now at Geysers, in Lake county of that state, where are located springs whose waters he is drinking for the benefit of his shattered health. It is understood that the chaplain will stay there a month, when he will begin a lecture tour in the principal cities of the east. After the projected lecture tour, he is to take charge of some church. The chaplain is an orator of ability, and it is thought that he will not find it difficult in securing a charge.

The vacancy caused by the dismissal of Chaplain McIntyre has been filled by the appointment of Rev. Curtis H. Dickens of this city, as has been previously announced.

BRIDGE ON FIRE.

Wednesday evening two young men, while crossing the bridge from Free man's point to Noble's island, on which the Portsmouth and Dover railroad crosses, discovered the structure on fire. After several minutes of hard work the fire was put out by the free use of sand.

An investigation disclosed the fact that a lantern had fallen between the ties and the oil running out had caught fire. But for the timely discovery of the blaze by the young men the bridge would probably have been destroyed. It is thought the lantern fell from a passing train.

A VALUABLE COLLECTION.

William D. Chandler of Concord, is the possessor of a full set of United States postage stamps, from 1817 to date, inclusive of all general and department issues, the Columbia and Oahu sets being features of the collection.

The $2, $5, $10 and $20 stamps of the state department, also the large news paper stamps, $2, $5, $10 and $25 are noticeable, and together the varied collection tells the story in detail of more than forty years of our national history. Such complete collections are very rare and very highly valued.

Brought Home Gold

J. E. Remick, who went to the Klondike region with a party of Malden and Somerville people last spring, has returned here. He brought out with him a good amount of gold, which he says well paid him for the trip. He located at Sunrise, on Canyon creek, and has staked out a good paying claim there. Only a part of the party returned home. These will return in the spring and those there now will come back for the winter of 1891-1900.

The Rivermouth Athletic Club

The Rivermouth Athletic club is arranging for a series of sparring exhibitions here this winter. The first will be held at Peirce hall on Nov. 28, when two of the best men in New England will appear for the wind up. There will be a number of preliminary bouts between Dover and Exeter boxers. Musical and comic specialties will be introduced between the exhibit.

RAILROAD IN SALISBURY

The Haverhill & Amesbury Company Will Meet the Exeter Railroad

About 25 horses and a number of carts arrived at Salisbury on Sunday to work on the construction of the branch of the Haverhill & Amesbury street railway from the square to the state line, where it will connect with the Hampton & Amesbury road. The rails have also arrived, and the tools and ties are daily expected, and the work of construction will begin in day or two. The men will all be hired in Newburyport and Salisbury. The men will all be hired in Newburyport and Salisbury. The road will be built over the location of the old horse car line, and will be built by James F. Shaw & Co railroad constructors. A car will be run from Newburyport and back with the workmen of that city.—Newburyport Daily News

SULLOWAY IN THE RACE

Congressman Enters Contest for Chandler's Seat Makes Three Candidates

(Special to the Herald)
MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 17.—A sensation was brought into the arena of politics tonight, when Congressman Cyrus A. Sulloway, who was elected last week for a third term in congress, announced himself as a candidate for U. S. senator, to succeed Senator William T. Chandler, whose term expires in 1900. This makes three candidates the other two being Hon. Henry E. Burnham and ex-Senator Henry W. Blair.

A Good Meeting

Rev. Wm. Warren of Portsmouth preached a most interesting sermon at the Methodist church last evening, there being a large congregation present. Rev. Mr. Warren took his text from John 16:33, "These things I have spoken unto you, that ye might have peace." In the world ye shall have tribulation; but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world." Much interest was manifested in the meeting.—Amesbury Paper

Hand Car Episode

A hand car on the Northern division of the Boston and Maine railroad, containing four workmen, had a narrow escape from being run down on Thursday morning by train No. 9, which left this city at 10 o'clock. As the train was rounding a curve between Madison and Conway, the engineer espied the hand car coming towards the train and only prompt action on the part of both saved a collision.

Torpedo Boats Coming

The new torpedo boats, Dahlgren and T. A. M. Craven, Nos. 9 and 10, now nearing completion at the Bath Iron works, are to come here to be fitted out before having their speed trials. Already much work is being done at the Kittery navy yard in anticipation of their arrival. These boats are 140 tons each and are to have 4200 horse power.

C C Club

Mrs. Florence B. Hill entertained the C C club at her home on Pleasant street, on Thursday evening. Wind was the order of the evening, the first prize being won by Miss Marion Taylor. Dainty refreshments were served and a most delightful time was enjoyed by all present.
